RED TIDE OF REVOLT SWEEPS ACROSS SPAIN

BRITISH SHIP ASHORE

H.M.S. SUFFOLK TO RESCUE

CITY OF CAMBRIDGE ON PRATAS REEF

The s.s. City of Cambridge went ashore on Pratras reef early this morning and a salvage tug from Taikoo is steaming to her rescue. H.M.S. Suffolk has been ordered to stand by in readiness to lend assistance. A typhoon creeping up from the South may menace the vessel but so far there is no immediate danger. No passengers are aboard.

Advice was received by the Bank Line early this morning that the City of Cambridge had piled up on a reef but that salvage tugs are being dispatched and there is hope of getting the ship off early, provided that there is no interference from the typhoon.

The vessel is carrying a general cargo from the United States and was due here yesterday on her way to north China.

She is commanded by Capt. Teague and is manned by a British and Lascar crew. Built in 1921 by Clark & Co., Ltd., of Belfast, the City of Cambridge has a tonnage of 7,058 and is registered at the Port of Glasgow.

The agents stated this morning that as far as was known H.M.S. Suffolk might be despatched to stand by.

H. M. S. Suffolk left for the scene shortly after 11 o'clock.

ALL MATCHES CANCELLED.
All naval football league matches for the week-end have been cancelled owing to the "stand by" order in connection with the City of Cambridge.

Typhoon Moving Slowly

HONGKONG LIKELY TO ESCAPE

SHIPS REPORT HEAVY WEATHER

It appears as if Hongkong will once again be fortunate in escaping the serious effects of a typhoon which yesterday appeared to be heading in this direction.

The Royal Observatory, reporting at 10.20 this morning, states that the typhoon is situated about 200 miles S.S.E. of Hongkong and is stationary or moving slowly westward.

The typhoon is of considerable area and intensity, and its slow movement is due to the increase of pressure over China. This increased pressure has caused the establishment of strong monsoon along the coast; and ships are reporting heavy weather in all directions from Hongkong.

Up to the present, Hongkong has been fortunate in that the weather has remained generally fair. Force 7 (moderate gale) is reported from Gap Rock, and it is expected that the wind will increase and that rainfall will commence in Hongkong before this evening.

New Republic Expected Soon To Be Proclaimed By Azana's Rebel Followers In Barcelona

ARMY OF MINERS FIGHT POLICE

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN OVIEDO

THREAT OF FAMINE APPEARS IN POPULOUS VALENCIA

(SPECIAL TO "TELEGRAPH")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, Oct. 6, 9.25 a.m.)

MADRID, OCT. 5.

THE RED TIDE OF REVOLUTION IS SPREADING THROUGHOUT SPAIN. THERE HAS BEEN A HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE IN CLASHES THROUGHOUT THE COUNTRY BETWEEN POLICE AND STRIKERS. IN BARCELONA, ACCORDING TO THE LATEST REPORTS, A SEPARATIST MOVEMENT IS AFOOT AND A NEW REPUBLIC WILL BE DECLARED UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF THE NOTED REVOLUTIONARY, MANUEL AZANA.

To the earlier list of twelve known dead must now be added another five victims of the disorders in Oviedo. Miners, well armed and wearing red arm-bands, are in conflict with Government troops and police. The situation grows steadily worse.

Latest reports state that the death roll is already over 100 and some 400 persons have been wounded. Oviedo has fallen into the hands of Government troops after a five-hour battle with rebels. There were heavy casualties.

CIVIL GUARDS BARRACKS RAIDED

A general railway strike has been declared throughout Spain, according to the latest reports.

The situation at Oviedo is most serious; miners armed with rifles and wearing red bands on their sleeves are still in frequent conflict with police.

Already five bodies have been brought into the hospital there, while six police and six strikers have been seriously wounded.

It is rumoured that the Civil Guards barracks have been attacked at Lugones and Hoyoslegu and other towns.

VALENCIA'S FLIGHT.
The city of Valencia is in an extremity. It has neither water, gas nor electricity. There is a growing fear of famine, for commodities are running very short.

It is rumoured in Madrid that the situation in the Basque province is becoming more acute.

BARCELONA TENSION.
The streets of Barcelona are now being patrolled by armed police and troops with fixed bayonets. Over 3,000 rifles and revolvers have been commandeered by Government forces owing to fears that the gunsmiths' shops might be raided and robbed.

THREE HUNDRED ARRESTS.
Three hundred persons have already been arrested in Barcelona alone.

The Revolutionary Committee of the strikers issued a bulletin later claiming that all the Civil Guards in the barracks of Asturias had been won over by the rebels. The railway stoppage in the country is complete, they add.

In North Asturias, police attempting to quell disturbances in various parts of the province, were compelled to retreat towards the Capital.

Barcelona is again the scene of serious rioting. Picture shows military guards in the streets of the city during earlier disturbances whilst a search is being made in a manhole for bombs.

SEPARATIST MOVE IN BARCELONA

NEW REPUBLIC TO BE FORMED

AZANA AT HEAD OF STATE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph. Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1934. Received, October 6, 9.25 a.m.)

Madrid, Oct. 5.

The declaration of a third Spanish Republic in Barcelona, with Senor Azana, former Premier, as its President, is imminent, according to a report unconfirmed in official sources, but seemingly authoritative.

Barcelona would be the temporary seat of the new Government, it is added.

Senor Azana, who may head a new Spanish Republic said to be in process of establishment at Barcelona.

ANTI-MONARCHIST.

Senor Manuel Azana, who may head the new Republic of Barcelona, which is expected to be formed as a result of the latest Spanish crisis, was born in 1880, studied law and then became a political publicist.

In 1930 he was elected President of the Ateneo, famous club of advanced political thinkers, and under him this group became a centre for the anti-monarchist movement. He was so skilful in his handling of affairs that he was never arrested.

When, as a result of the overwhelming republican vote, King Alfonso left Spain, Azana became War Minister in Senor Zamora's Cabinet.

In that same year he formed one of the short-lived cabinets of the time.

THREE HURT IN BRAWL

AMERICAN SEAMEN'S YAMAUTI FIGHT

NON-UNION MEN ATTACKED

As a result of the brawl which occurred at Young's Cafe, Yamauti, last evening between two groups of seamen from the President Grant, three men, Harry Westrup, Casper Appell and Henry Barney were badly injured. Westrup received lacerations on the left side of the head, Appell severe bruises on the left arm and laceration of the scalp, while Barney was badly cut under the left eye and also sustained bad bruises on the forehead.

The Telegraph learns this morning that an Englishman, who introduced himself to the injured men as Capt. Anderson, of the R.A.M.C., was knocked unconscious on the side-walk during the brawl.

The disturbance was a sequel to the recent waterfront strike on the American Pacific Coast. It appears that some of the seamen in the President Grant joined the ship as strike-breakers and remained their jobs after the strike and been declared off. Ill-feeling between union and non-union men and been evident throughout the present trip and tension snapped last evening.

The Police discounted the story that fighting took place on the wharftide. The only disturbance as far as they knew occurred at Young's Cafe, Yamauti. They were informed of this by telephone but when a squad arrived on the scene they merely saw one or two sailors walking around the street.

No arrests have been made and the Police state that the matter would probably be dealt with by the Captain of the President Grant.

YELLOW RIVER STILL RISES

Floods Spreading In Hopei

Tientsin, Oct. 6.

The Hopei Provincial Government has received an alarming report from the southern quarter of the province to the effect that the flood situation is being aggravated by a further rising of the Yellow River, which has gained three feet within two days.

Three newly repaired dykes have collapsed causing widespread floods in the surrounding villages.—Central News.

CHAMPION WINS WAY TO FINALS

Thrilling Match In U.S. Women's Golf

Philadelphia, Oct. 5.
Miss Virginia Van Wie, U.S. women's golf champion, met the determined challenge of her old rival, Mrs. Collett Vane, in the semi-final round of the title match to-day, with a calm assurance which nothing could shake. She eliminated the former title-holder, who is attempting a come-back, by three and two.

Miss Dorothy Traung, youthful challenger, won her way to this position by beating Mrs. Hill by the same score as the Van Wie-Vane match produced.—Reuter.

JAPAN MARKET THREATENED

DUTCH INDIES TO BUY BRITISH?

The Hague, Oct. 5.
Herr Spanjaard, the official Dutch representative at the Japan-Dutch negotiations at Batavia, returned here to-day and declared that there was little hope of an agreement between the two countries respecting trade allocations or quotas in the East Indies.

He added that it may be found necessary to curtail Japanese textile exports to the Dutch East Indies in favour of British and German products.—Reuter.

DETROIT HUMBLER IN THIRD GAME

ST. LOUIS TAKES LEAD IN WORLD SERIES

ERRORS AGAIN PROVE COSTLY

Detroit, Oct. 5.
The St. Louis Cardinals have gone back into the lead in the World Series with the Detroit Tigers. The third game of their three-day meeting here ended disastrously for the home team when the St. Louis big guns opened up in the fifth inning and scored two runs.

Thereafter, although Detroit switched pitchers, there was no holding the Cardinals. Furthermore, the Detroit team slipped on two plays, and the errors were costly.

The box score read:
St. Louis 4 9 1
Detroit 1 8 2

Tommy Bridges, opened for Detroit and lasted five innings. Then he blew up. The Cardinals hit him hard and scored twice. Elton Hoggatt, Tigers' opening pitcher in the first encounter, tried to stem the tide, but his team let him down with two errors in a critical moment and the Cards went further ahead.

Although Detroit hit safely eight times, they could only manage one run. Their scoring efforts were scattered, while St. Louis bunched their hits in the fifth and seventh innings.

Paul Dean, brother of the famous Dizzy, pitched a strong game for the Cardinals and never let them get out of hand. St. Louis now leads by two games to one, and the teams go to St. Louis for the next round of the series. Two more wins for St. Louis will give them the "world's championship."—Reuter.

SUBMARINE'S MISHAP

CUTS JUNK IN HALVES

Rammed by H.M.S. Orpheus with such force that it was completely cut in two, an unknown cargo boat sank in sensational circumstances in the harbour early yesterday morning.

The junk, which was in charge of Cheung Lee, was proceeding to Yamauti when the incident occurred, just as dawn was breaking. The Orpheus was proceeding to an Admiralty buoy in the harbour, following the hoisting of the No. 1 typhoon signal.

When the submarine rammed the junk, the latter was cut completely in two, and members of the crew clung precariously to each section.

Pellice launch No. 8, in charge of Inspector Hughes, was fortunately in the vicinity, and rescued all the crew. Efforts were also made to salvage the junk.

MAKE-UP HINTS

By MAX FACTOR

Modern girls have the opportunity to be more fascinating, more beautiful, more wholly charming than the women of any other age.

The key to an exciting personality is in your hands. Use it! Throw off your old accustomed self as you would an old cloak. Remember it's the something different, the something new that brings the sparkle to your eyes and gives life a new glamor. You can make yourself different "Dress-up" and "make-up" each side of your personality. No girl allows herself to be definitely typed these days—not if she's clever and wants to play a starring role in her community. "Variety" is the cry of the age... and the spice!

Even in the time of Louis XIV, whose court was the most brilliant the world has ever known, famous characters had no such opportunities as you have to-day. They simply kept their wigs powdered and put beauty spots in exactly the same place year after year and wished to goodness somebody would start a new style. Then fashionable ladies wore the same type of costume for more than a decade, whereas you can change personalities seven times a day if you like.

The casual, friendly you of the tennis courts ought to be a distinct individual from the thrilling you of the dance floor. An incident occurred at Palm Springs last week-end that illustrates my point. Three girls sat on the edge of the swimming pool obviously wondering why the boys who had been so attentive the night before, now passed them by. The answer was only too evident. They had on elaborate heavy make-up that was so out of place with their bathing suits as to be really funny. It was the same sort of make-up they had worn the previous evening. Under the electric lights it had made them beautiful; but in the blazing desert sunlight they looked as artificial as paper roses.

Your make-up and hairdress should never be at odds with what you're wearing. They should suggest a mood or carry out a theme—and these new style creations suggest such delightful themes! The colour harmony of your cosmetics doesn't change. It's the way you apply them that brings about the alteration.

It seems strange now to think of that Betty Davis who walked into my studio nearly three years ago. "It looks as if I'm on my way back to New York," she said with a gallant little gesture. The truth was Betty hadn't "discovered" herself yet. She hadn't learned to create a distinctive personality for herself through the magic of make-up. To bring out that personality, I mean, for the world to see. And so she was becoming another of Hollywood's ex-hopefuls.

We set to work in front of the mirror. It brings a warm glow to this ancient heart of mine to think of her delighted "ohs" and "ahs" as we progressed. Betty instantly saw the possibilities. She went home and practiced what we had done. She added to it. A few days later she came back a changed person. You know the rest of her story—of how George Arliss chose her to appear with him in "The Man Who Played God" and of how she subsequently became a star.

Now what about you? Your friends say you're the outdoors type? Show them to-night how gorgeously feminine you can be! They say you're like a little mouse? Go sophisticated on them! It's distinctly up to you!

Stars Paid More Than
U.S. President

$63,000 IN A YEAR.

No fewer than 110 persons employed in the U.S. film industry received larger salaries than President Roosevelt during 1933. In addition, three other persons received salaries equal to that which President Roosevelt would have received if he had not reduced it, namely, $15,000.

This fact is revealed in a report just published by the N.R.A. on the producing, distributing, and exhibiting branches of the film industry.

The highest salary paid to an unnamed actor was $63,000, and the next highest $59,250, paid to an "artist" who received $2,000 a week when working.

The highest salary paid to an actress was $38,200. The highest to a member of the executive was $5,519, and the highest to a director was $30,000.

During 1933, 28,055 actors and actresses received a total of $5,166,999, compared with 20,503, who received a total of $7,416,505 in 1931.

The salary of Shirley Temple, the child film star, who threatened to go "on strike" unless she were paid $500 a week, is reported to have been adjusted at $250 a week.

RONALD COLMAN TALKS.

"I had to go all the way around the world to learn to appreciate Hollywood."

Thus spoke Ronald Colman as he rested between scenes of "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," his first photoplay under his new contract with 20th Century Pictures. He removed the military overcoat which was the chief item of his wardrobe in his earlier portrayal of "Bulldog Drummond," lighted a cigarette, and, between puffs, talked about his travels.

Almost a year before, after finishing "The Masquerader," Colman had left Hollywood and spent months in Paris, St. Moritz, Monte Carlo, and other points of interest in Europe. Then he took ship for the Orient, carrying for some time in Java and other parts of the Far East before he returned to Hollywood to resume his film career.

"It was a wonderful vacation," he said. "For the first time in many years I was able to enjoy the feeling that it made no difference whether I stayed in one place a month or six. I enjoyed Spain tremendously. I visited Pamplona during the fiesta. That is the fair which Ernest Hemingway celebrated in one of his novels."

Colman's motion picture eye was strongly attracted to the cinema theatres in the Orient. "You'd be surprised at the beautiful motion picture theatres in Shanghai and Tokyo," he said. "They are well patronized. The Japanese, too, are the most devoted fans. They follow you around from dawn to dusk."

The long rest gave Colman renewed zest for the prospect of returning to work in "Bulldog Drummond Strikes Back," he is supported by a cast that includes Loretta Young and Warner Oland.

CHILDREN AND CRUSTS

It is very bad for children's teeth to let them eat the crumb of bread and not the crust.

Most children reject the latter, but, for the sake of their teeth, the crusts of bread must be eaten. Quite a good plan is to bake the crusts in the oven till they are of a golden brown, and then spread them with butter, jam, or honey.

Another plan is to fry the crusts in bacon or beef dripping; most children love this, and will eat the glorified crusts without demur.

run of the play "Touch-wood," go to Hollywood on a two-way contract under the auspices of Warner Bros. at the Burbank Studios.

His contract with Warners is virtually for seven years, but is two-way in the sense that if Hunter and Warners are mutually satisfied with the first film, the contract will be carried out in its entirety.

This arrangement is the result of three first-class performances from Ian Hunter in "No Escape," "Church Mouse," and "Something Always Happens," all of which films were made at Teddington Studios.

Ian Hunter has been before the play-going public since 1919, when he made his first stage appearance.

His film career started in 1923 in "The Ring." This was followed by "Downhill," "Escape," "Cape Forlorn," "Sally in Our Alley," "The Sign of Four," and "The Man from Toronto."

When he sails for Hollywood it will not be his first trip to America, as he has already been to New York, where he appeared in the stage versions of "The School for Scandal" and "Olympia."

Air Race Waste Of Time

HERR FOKKER'S OPINION

Amsterdam, Oct. 1.
Commercial aviation and the aircraft industry in general derive no real benefits from such contests as the London-Melbourne air race this month, according to Mr. Anthony Fokker, the Dutch-airplane designer and manufacturer. In an interview Mr. Fokker said: "It is true that such flights as those of the pioneers in long distance flying have acted as a kind of eye-opener and by their sensational nature have helped to make the public air-conscious. Apart from this these exploits are of very little direct interest. Their advertising value is not in proportion to the expense and risk involved."

Mr. Fokker declared that he was not particularly interested in the London-Melbourne race from the point of view of an airplane manufacturer.

"I am quite certain," he said, "that many other manufacturers share my opinion in this respect."

Two of Mr. Fokker's machines, a 32-seater Fokker passenger plane and a Douglas machine, have been entered for the London-Melbourne air marathon by the Royal Dutch Air Lines. Despite this, however, Mr. Fokker declared that his own principle as a manufacturer has always been to take no part, either financially or actively, in what he terms "stunt" record flights. He also expressed some doubt as to whether the machines entered by the Royal Dutch Air Lines actually would compete.

MAY NOT START.

"The Royal Dutch Air Lines' regular route covers a large part of the London-Melbourne race," he continued, "and from this point of view they may be in a specially favourable position owing to the experience of their personnel. But I am not convinced that any of their machines will actually start."

"It is the mileage flown by machines on regular air routes year in and year out which builds up a lasting reputation for them. The reputation of air lines is founded on safety and on their economic results."

Mr. Fokker added that he had no illusions about the commercial value of the race and that he had refused all requests to assist, either financially or in any other way, in it.—United Press.

AMERICAN ANCIENT

PASSES AT AGE OF 119 YEARS

Cleveland, Sept. 28.

Ned Morgan was buried as simply and as inconspicuously as he had lived.

A plain pine box was lowered, without ritual, into a grave in Potters Field.

Ned's "baby daughter," Mrs. Elizabeth Reddick, 64, brought him to Cleveland 11 years ago. He was eight years past the century mark then, and had outlived five wives, six children, two grandchildren, three great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild—the latter by 14 years.

Morgan was born on a plantation near Richmond, Virginia, in 1816, the property of a slave-owner named Cobb. When nine years old he was sold to another slave owner named Morgan, and took the latter's name.

He survived two automobile accidents and two strokes in a long life. The third stroke killed him.—United Press.

DARING GIRL PARACHUTIST

FELL TO 300 METRES FROM GROUND

THEN PULLED HER RIP CORD

Moscow, Oct. 3.

What was said to be a new world's record for delayed parachute jumping was made here recently by an 18-year-old girl, Miss Nina Kamneva, at the Tushino Airfield.

Jumping from a plane at a height of 3,000 metres, Miss Kamneva fell with bullet-like speed to 300 metres before opening her parachute. She landed safely.

Describing her sensational jump, Miss Kamneva said:

"We took off on a training U-2 type of plane, piloted by Miss Savchenko, a woman flier who only recently finished flying school. It was terribly cold when we rose to a height of 3,000 metres. Both of us were shivering."

"I opened the parachute at a height of 300 metres when people and planes on the airfield became clearly visible. To balance the pressure of my blood while falling I attempted to shout and sing the aviation march, 'Higher and Higher', but I could hardly hear my own voice."

"Now, after my jump, I feel quite well."

Although she is only 18 years old, Miss Kamneva has already received the title of Parachute Sports Instructor. —United Press.

MEN RUSH TO BEAUTICIANS

Take A Tip From London Ladies

SEARCH FOR NEW FACES

London, Sept. 30.

British men are taking a beauty tip from their womenfolk these days and going in for a little face lifting and wrinkle patting on their own. If the number of Adonises in this country does not increase and bounds in the near future someone will be asking the beauticians why.

The men are rushing to the beauty parlours faster than their wives and daughters, according to one well-known West End face specialist. The trouble with them, however, it seems, is that they won't take the same trouble over their "canned" complexions as the women do.

"They never massage their faces with creams or lotions", this beauty specialist stated, "and as a result their skin withers. Then plastic surgery becomes necessary. That makes new men out of them. Many former clients said that a face lifting operation brought back their wives' love to them, and some found that rather a nuisance."

"The would-be Valentinos include actors, singers, professional dancers and lecturers. A beach life-guard was included among the clients of this beauty expert."

"The modern beauty specialist", he said, "can perform operations which improve facial contours without removing characteristic wrinkles. In the same way double chins are invisibly removed."

It is even possible to have a sample face lifting as a try-out before the permanent effect is completed. This is done by tightening up the face with plaster to give the would-be owner of a film face a preview of the final result. —United Press.

FATAL ACCIDENT

VERDICT OF DEATH BY MISADVENTURE

The third inquest this week was brought to a close yesterday, when a verdict of death by misadventure was returned by the jury, at an inquiry conducted by Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones, at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court, into the death of a Chinese married woman, Leung Mul, 38 years of age, who was knocked down by motor car No. 601, at Chung Sha Wan on September 10.

The jury comprised Messrs. R. J. Shrigley (Foreman), L. D. Fernandes and H. A. de Figueiredo.

Dr. P. F. S. Court, of the Kowloon Hospital, said that on September 10 at 5.30 p.m. a Chinese female was admitted to the hospital. She was in a moribund condition, and died at 9.30 p.m. A post-mortem examination was held the next day.

External injuries to the body were, bruises and abrasions, and lacerations. The internal injuries found were, ribs number two to eight were fractured, in line with the right arm pit. There was blood in the chest cavity and the liver was ruptured. The right kidney was blue and there was much blood in the abdominal cavity; and there was some bruising over the left side of the brain.

With the exception of slight congestion of the right lung, the other organs were quite normal. Death was caused by fracture of the ribs, ruptured liver and haemorrhage.

The wounds were consistent with being dragged over the ground; excepting those on the left and right leg, where the wheel of a car passed over. The fracture of the ribs suggested pressure of some sort and not a blow.

Body Identified.

Po Soo testified to identifying the body, as being her daughter-in-law, Leung Mul. The body was also identified by the driver of the car, Mr. V. H. Freeman, as the Chinese female knocked down by him.

Inspector Shafton of the Shamshuipo Police Station in the course of his evidence stated that on September 10, at 5 p.m., he was informed that an accident had occurred on Castle Peak Road. He immediately went to the scene and outside house No. 322, he saw car No. 601, about six feet from the curb. The front wheels were turned toward the curb at an angle of about 45 degrees, lying on her back before the car was a Chinese woman. She was conscious, and appeared to be in considerable pain.

In the arms of a coolie was a small child, apparently unconscious. Sitting against the wall of house No. 322 was another Chinese female, who was also injured.

About two minutes after his arrival, the driver of the car, Mr. V. H. Freeman, appeared. The child and the injured woman were lifted (Continued on Page 7.)

into the car, while the other injured girl, who was sitting against the wall, was placed in the aidcar of a police motorcycle, and they were all driven to the Kowloon Hospital.

Police Informed.

At the time Inspector Shaftain received the message, it had been raining very hard, but at the scene of the accident no sign was noticed on the road whether the car had been in a skid.

After the victims had been admitted to the hospital, Mr. Freeman and Inspector Shaftain went to the Shamshui Police Station, where they met Traffic-Sergeant Scrimm. The three then went to the scene of the accident, in car No. 601. On the way Scrimm tested the foot brakes of the car, which appeared to be in perfect working order.

Li Yuen, a 17-year-old Chinese girl, who was one of the three persons involved in the accident, gave evidence.

She stated that on September 19, about 6 p.m., she was returning home from work, and was walking along Castle Peak Road, towards Kowloon, in the company of the deceased and her son, Wong Sik-hung. At that time there was a strong wind blowing, and it was raining very hard. On nearing the home of a fellow worker, the three of them crossed the road to borrow a hat. After borrowing the hat, they again crossed to the other side of the road, and when they were about three paces from the pavement all three were knocked down by a car, which had come from the direction of Lai-chikok.

After the accident, she remem-bered, she was lying under the front part of the car and the other two further back under the car. She also remembered being lifted from under the car and placed on the pavement. Afterwards she was taken to the hospital by somebody, but she did not know by whom.

Car Examined.

Traffic-Sergeant Scrimm gave evidence of having tested the car, which was a 21 horsepower, 1932 model, Morris Isis saloon. It was fitted with hydraulic brakes. The foot brakes when applied pulled the car up in 21 feet, when travelling at a speed of 20 miles an hour, and the hand brake in 56 feet at the same speed.

Witness on being questioned stated that in such circumstances he the accident had happened, he would not have applied the handbrake.

Mr. V. H. Freeman, the driver of the car, gave evidence in which he stated that it had been loaned to him by Dodwell and Company while his own car was being repaired. He had only had the car for two days. He had been driving a car for two years.

How Mishap Occurred.

On the day of the accident he was driving along Castle Peak Road towards Kowloon. About half way through Cheung Sha Wan village he saw a lorry approaching. When it was 20 yards from him, he suddenly saw a black object about three feet to the right of his car. He immediately swerved to the left and applied the brakes. At the same moment he felt impact, and a crowd of Chinese immediately shouted to him to reverse. He reversed about one yard, and got out. On looking round, he saw the deceased lying under the car.

At the first glance he thought she was dead, so he immediately telephoned the police, but when he went back to the car, he found the deceased was still breathing. With the aid of a jack he lifted the car and lifted her out. Her leg had been caught in the shaft.

He then went and telephoned for an ambulance, and on his return he found that Inspector Shaftain had arrived. Acting under instructions from Inspector Shaftain he took two of the victims to the hospital, then went to the Shamshui Police Station.

At the time of the accident it was raining very heavily, but the rain was at the back of him, and he had a very clear view of the road. He was travelling at a speed of 18 miles an hour.

Further evidence was given by Chong Yum-ying, a 19-year-old stall hawker's assistant, and by Traffic-Sergeant Scrimm.

The jury retired for a short while and returned with a verdict of death by misadventure, no blame being attached to the driver.

Nothing Equals 'ASPRO' for Dengue & Rheumatism

Selly's Estate,
Jephtham, North Queensland.
Dear Sirs,
Having used your 'ASPRO' for Dengue Fever and also for Rheumatism, I have found that nothing equals 'ASPRO' for relief from pain.
I was very bad the last week in December, and could not sleep with Rheumatism in my legs. A neighbour called to see me, and she told me that 'ASPRO' Tablets were good for pain. I straightaway sent to the chemist for a box of 'ASPRO' and I can truthfully say that I was surprised at the relief I got after taking the first 'ASPRO' Tablets—they took away the pain and I could sleep at a night. I took three Tablets a night for four nights, and they relieved me, and now I am as well as ever.
Yours faithfully,

'ASPRO' Works Wonders for Malaria

Gledstone, Queensland.
Gentlemen,
I think it is up to me to let you know how I have benefited by 'ASPRO'. Ever since 1910 I have been a sufferer from MALARIA FEVER, having contracted it in Rhodesia, German East Africa and the Straits Settlements.
I came to Australia from the latter country five years ago, and for the first two and a half years was continually in hospital in Victoria and New South Wales. On arriving in Queensland, a friend advised me to try 'ASPRO'. I did, and it has worked wonders. I still continue to get slight attacks of Malaria, but if I take a few 'ASPRO' Tablets and hot lemon water, and rest a few hours, I am quite O.K. again. I wouldn't be without 'ASPRO' for anything and always carry a box about with me. I can thoroughly recommend them to anyone suffering from the same malady.
This testimonial is unsolicited and you may make any use of it that you think fit.
Yours faithfully,

BRITAIN'S DEFENCE
POLICY

Answering the complaint by Lord Lloyd of the alleged inadequacy of Imperial defence, Sir Austen Chamberlain had no difficulty in showing that the National Government is fully alive to the needs of the situation. The fact is beyond dispute that Britain has not only exerted her utmost endeavours to bring about an international scheme of disarmament, but has revealed her sincerity by reducing her armed forces down to a level which might easily endanger national and imperial security. The uncertainty of the future, however, has plainly illustrated the necessity of preparedness, and, with the disarmament outlook so blurred, Britain has been left with no other option than to see that adequate defence measures are instituted. So far, the only plans divulged are those relating to the Air Force, on which, during the next five years, no less a sum than twenty millions sterling is to be spent. The reason for giving priority to Air Force expansion is that, if any threat to the security of the Homeland is to be feared, it will come from the air. It is admittedly a moot point whether even the immense expansion of her Air Force contemplated can guarantee Britain complete immunity from invasion, but it is obvious, even to the layman, that the existence of a big, modern fleet of aircraft would be a factor in deterring other nations from venturing on any scheme of attack, aerial or otherwise. In any case, it would be suicidal for Britain to remain inactive in face of the uneasy conditions which still persist in Europe. The Government owes it as a duty to the nation to see that every reasonable precaution is taken to guard against sudden and unexpected threat to its security. But the point is worthy of being stressed that although common prudence dictates such a policy, there is no implication therein that Britain intends giving up hopes of an eventual disarmament agreement being reached. The Government is still pledged to strive by all the means in its power to get an agreement reached, a circumstance which is proved by Mr. Chamberlain's statement that in the matter of aerial expansion, the programme mapped out may be slowed down if conditions warrant such a step. It is true that he also asserted that, should the necessity arise, the plans may even be accelerated, but there is an obvious reluctance on the part

NOTES OF THE DAY

GET-RICH-QUICK

How many times and in how many places has it been said by some grizzled old resident with a jerk of his thumb towards a hazy horizon of forest-clad young mountains: "There's gold in them hills!" They have been saying it for many a year in Ontario, around Red Lake and Deer Lake, and here and there. Now they are saying it about the Sturgeon Lake country, a place of wild, dwarf-pine lands, dotted with innumerable lakes, and rivers, a refuge of millions of animals and birds. Fifteen years or so ago a fifty-year-old prospector came to Toronto and asked a certain wealthy man for enough money to grubstake him through the winter. He had found rich outcroppings in the Red Lake country, he said. He got his grubstake and he found his mine. To-day he is worth something around a million dollars in gold.

SHOWED THE WAY

This prospector showed the way, with others, to what promises to be the richest gold-field in the world's history. Canadian Government experts have examined the ground and they declare it to be spectacular. Hundreds of gold-bunkers are pouring into the Sturgeon Lake area. American and Canadian syndicates are bidding desperately against each other for the choice claims. They will gamble on the thing, of course. In the early stages, a claim cannot be more than roughly valued. It may never pay for the cost of equipment. Nevertheless, companies bid up to good round sums to get the digging rights from the prospector. Generally speaking the prospector makes $10,000 (Canadian currency) out of a good claim. That would be a fair average. The company may make $10,000,000 or nothing at all. In two or three years the prospector will probably be back hunting another lead. Or he may go and work in a stope of the mine property he discovered, drawing his three or four dollars a day in wages. They are a great breed, those prospecting men.

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

If the Sturgeon Lake properties turn out as engineers seem to expect they will, another Rand will spring up in the wild Ontario backwoods. It will be better and bigger than the Klondike. The area is small, comparatively. Such a strike would probably put Canada into the forefront as a gold-producing nation (she is already second) and would be a most welcome impetus towards the goal of economic recovery, a goal Dominion has been striving for the past several years. On the whole, Canada appears to be fulfilling the prophecy made of her by early parliamentarians: "This will be the greatest mineral producing country the world has ever known." Already Canada stands far ahead in nickel and asbestos production, second in gold, copper and zinc, third in silver and fourth in lead, and all of these vast related industries are growing steadily, in spite of difficult market conditions, and are generally considered among the soundest of Dominion investments. As far as Sturgeon Lake is concerned, it will be a surprise if it is not rich, for it lies in the same territory in which some of the most successful shafts have been sunk. In any event, the strike will take some of those too numerous young men out of the cities, singing: "Give me a pick and shovel, boys, and I'll be on my way."

COST OF MAILS

The United States Postmaster-General, Mr. Farley, is listening to arguments as to why the Government should not reduce, or eliminate altogether, the enormous subsidies paid to American steamship companies which carry mails. The present cost of subsidies to the Government is $32,000,000 a year. Mr. Farley wants to reduce that by approximately one-third. He will have to fight against the combined strength of the American shipping industry, in all probability, to put this piece of economy through Congress. It has been said the mail subsidy to Pacific steamers at least, pays the entire cost of fuel they use.

of the Government to do more than is really necessary in the interests of national security. Britain will continue her efforts to reach accord with other nations on the disarmament issue, but until the prospects are brighter than they are at the moment, she must reserve to herself the right of taking such measures as are deemed essential. In other words, whilst hoping and working for the best, it would be fatal if she did not, at the same time, prepare for the worst.

MR. PEPYS IN HONGKONG

Sept. 28th.—Up betimes and wretchedly glad to find that the fellows who have dallied so long in the painting of my second bathroom have at last made an end of the business. But Lord! how long they did take over a simple job. After I have ordered my papers at my office to the preview of a picture, but I care not much for it. Thereafter I do drink a glass or two of strong waters at the Barro and so to dinner, and later writing in my Chamber.

29th.—Awakened this morning shortly after six of the clock to receive a cable from my wife, poor wretch, who hath sailed yesterday from the Port of London. And I have never been woken up for any more pleasant thing, and I do pray that she has safe and smooth passage. Being thus aroused, I do fall to writing and later as I break my fast I do see the news sheets, and see there is much trouble over the Saar plebiscite. And I do trust it leads to no serious trouble, and am minded that the wisest course were to put a ring fence round the district and to leave the populace to themselves, and then for the League of Nations to call for the corpses once upon every week, until the decision be a unanimous one. For these middle European dissensions and jealousies did draw us into one war, and I trust they may never do so again. But I do believe the strength of Labour would prevent any save a war of defence when attacked. Being at my office so betimes I do contrive to leave about noon, and I do visit the Speed Arms, where mine host greets me most hospitably. After luncheon at the Clubbe, to the Kowloon Cricket Club, where I spend the afternoon watching the cricket tryal very pleasantly in the shade of a most convenient tree. Afterwards being upon my way home, I do visit Mistress Ann and her parents, and find all well, but am somewhat at a stonde to know if Mistress Ann doth empty her bath by the waste pipe or by splashing it upon the floor, if I but judge from sound. So home to a quiet dinner and a good book.

30th (Lord's Day).—Lay pretty late but not as much as is my wont, there being Krickett at Kowloon just before noon. Earlier it did rain which did somewhat dash my spirits, the more so that the boy forgets to order my kipper. In the news sheets I read, as usual, much talk of gold and silver, and whether China shall come onto the gold standard. But to my mind all this talk is subtly put out to influence the prices either in the share market or the exchange gambling. And I would fain see it made a crime to gamble in exchange, or even to buy or sell it except for proved mercantile use or personal requirements. I see that the finding about the Morro Castle is under deliberation. But I gravely doubt whether a full finding will ever be made to the public. The rain being finished, to Kowloon, tho' I find to my greatest possible discontent that Number One Signal be hoisted. Still the weather is mighty fair and I do make myself very comfortable in a quiet corner under a tree and watch the Krickett, and take my nunchoon upon sandwiches and a Snasque. Home after the game with Mr. E. Mitchell in his coach, and it is the first time in my life that ever do cross the Harbour in the Vehicular Ferry, which I do find very well designed, albeit a trifle hot in the coach.

1st. October.—Reading this day in the news sheets, I do learn that the foundation stone of the Hongkong and Shanghai new bank building will shortly be laid, and I doubt not they will enclose coins, notes, and news sheets of this period, as is the general custom. And by a happy thought, I do take up my pen and write to the Chief Manager to give him my full leave to bury my over-drafted therewith! Yet, strange as it doth seem, I have no answer yet. And it comes into my mind to enquire if aught of interest was found when they did move the stone of the old building. Though the typhoon doth pass some two hundred miles to the south, it blows mighty hard and no less hard then when I do walk from my office to the Clubbe, so I got soaked through. But a hot bath and a glass of strong waters doth set all that straight, and I trust I shall take no harm of it.

2nd.—Shortly after eight of the clock I do perceive what seemeth to be drill upon the Murray Parade Ground, but it was the strangest drill that ever I saw, and soon I did make up my mind that certain parties were bound for education in Amerique, and were practicing the college yell. But when I tell Mr. Povy, he laughs at me, and says they do but practice for a Tattoo. Now I have often heard of the White Kaffir, but may God preserve me from a Welsh Zulu upon a dark night. This day had a large bunch of radishes to my nunchoon, the first this year and mighty good, tho' being so early, some are a trifle hot. To a preview and after dinner with Mr. Muleygrubs, and his Lady. Very heavy rain at night and I cannot call to mind a time when I have seen the Krickett ground so deep a lake.

3rd.—To a cocktail party at Seventh Heaven, and after did entertain some pleasant people. We did fall in talk of this petition for a reprieve, in a certain murder case. And we some of us do feel that there are some persons in the Colony who do strive to the utmost to make it a land fit for murderers to live in.

4th.—Fair weather again but somewhat hot, and we do seem to be having out of season all the typhoons that came not in their proper time. Good news comes that my old friend, Mr. R. Lindsell, is made Puisne Judge, and I am right glad of it and do most heartily congratulate His Honour upon his honour. Drank a glass of wine to his prosperity and to his Lady. Very busy at previews, and later to the Clubbe where I do perceive that my olde friend the Wild Swan is once more in Port. And I am glad of it, and trust that the Navy will return early for this winter. Dined quietly in my Chamber and afterwards writing in my diary.

"Will you ask Mrs. De Vaughn if she is going golfing to-day?"

There is no truth in the rumour that a certain party of carollers are learning the deaf and dumb language for their Peak performances this year.

As we anticipated: Just as the circus was landing at Kowloon, someone remarked "Arki!"

Dark Dresses for Autumn Days

HAIRY WOOL in a handsome shade of gray is used to make the smart one-piece dress with raglan sleeves and a form-fitting skirt worn by the girl at the right. It's trimmed with Ascot scarf and twisted belt of violet velvet.

Those light-coloured frocks of summer are out of date now, and the sophisticated ensemble is apt to be black.

Costumes Courtesy
BONWIT-TELLER
NEW YORK

PERFECT for the matronly figure is this figured blue silk crepe tunic, worn over a velvet skirt that's split on each side. Note the raglan sleeves with wide armholes.

THIS STREET DRESS of heavy black crepe has a collar, sleeve inserts and cuff linings of white silk. The belt is fashioned from silver metal cloth.

THE light-coloured dresses that were so flattering and amusing all summer are completely out of the fashion picture in October even though hot weather is lingering.

Of course, a woman still can wear her warm-weather sports clothes for week-ends, but when it comes to getting dressed for the street, she simply has to have a dark frock. Her summer cheeks and chignons won't do.

When you set out to buy the new ensemble, try to get a mental picture of the way you want to look.

Does the idea of appearing chic and sophisticated appeal to you? If so, go in for black. Nothing is smarter on pre-autumn days. Or would you rather be a bright spot of colour when you go walking and shopping? All right, then, build your outfit around a rusty-red, royal blue or mustard yellow dress.

Be sure to get either a very heavy silk crepe, a sheer alpaca or a wool crepe frock. And if you're anxious to look distinctly autumn-ish, get a fabric that's interwoven with metallic threads, or a plain dress trimmed with touches of metal cloth.

Skirts are a trifle longer and the silhouette, generally speaking, is quite narrow. In other words, there is an absence of shoulder fullness, flares and pleats in skirts and details that jut outward. Raglan sleeves are very smart.

Dead black, slightly relieved by white, metal cloth and light blue touches, is a headliner. After that, oxford grey, rusty reds, tangerine, offshades of yellow and various tones of blue are important.

Two-piece frocks are good, particularly if one has a slender, youthful figure. And one-piece dresses, cut with poplins to give a two-piece effect, are being shown in practically all of the misses and junior misses departments. Tunics are much in evidence, especially for matrons.

Split-skirts are in. For street wear, the splits are in the sides of skirts—not more than six or seven inches long. For evening, splits are in front and back of the skirt as well as on sides.

Many necklines are lower. However, there are a good many high ones, finished with turned down collars that have fairly long points.

You'll wear gloves that match your costume, a wide-brimmed felt hat or some version of the beret, oxfords or opera pumps and a bit of costume jewelry. And you'll carry a medium-sized bag of suede or dull kid.

TIE AND CUFFS of silver trim this slimly tailored frock of black, rubby wool sheer. A pancake beret, silver gloves and black suede slippers are worn with it.

SHEER ALPACA IN BLACK with gold metallic stripes fashions this smart September dress. The bodice ties at the back in a bow of self material that's lined with gold cloth to match the lining on the little bows in front.

"JOHN BULL" OF POLITICS

BY MILTON BRONNER

Swinging with easy, practiced stride, Stanley Baldwin, Lord Privy Seal in the National Government, has been doing his usual statesmanlike job in substituting for Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, whilst the latter has been on much-needed holiday in Canada.

Stanley Baldwin "swinging with easy, practiced stride" in a picture taken the other day after he had taken the helm of the British ship of state.

He is an old hand at the game, having on various occasions been Prime Minister himself, as head of Tory governments. And "Ramsay Mac" in the solitude of Canadian forests has had no occasion to wonder how he was doing. Baldwin was not only experienced, but loyal. When the Socialist Government fell several years ago, it might have been the logical thing for the King to call upon Baldwin to form a Tory cabinet. But with characteristic generosity, he agreed with the King that a National government should be formed under MacDonald as Premier and drawing its support from a coalition of Tories, National Labourites and National Liberals. He, who had been chief and might have been so again, took second place.

CALM UNDER FIRE

His conduct has pleased the country, but not the politicians. MacDonald's critics say he has entirely succumbed to Baldwin and given force to too many Tory policies. Baldwin's critics say that, with such an overwhelming Tory majority in the House of Commons, he should have tossed MacDonald out and formed a strong, red-blooded Tory government. Baldwin has been attacked for the government's policy in the quarrel with the Irish Free State and President de Valera. The presumed governmental policy with regard to a degree of self-government for India is under sharp fire. But Baldwin goes his serene way, carrying a majority of the Tories with him every time his opponents stage a party meeting.

The determination to have a big, adequate air force, the stiff notes to Germany in regard to British private debts, the endeavour to get Germany to join in an Eastern Locarno pact to bulwark European peace—all these things were thrust out thoroughly between MacDonald and Baldwin before the former left the country. Baldwin will do nothing sensational, because he is not a sensational kind of person. In his sturdy figure, rugged, smooth-shaven face with bottle-nose (delight of the cartoonists) and his inevitable pipe, Baldwin seems to typify the masses of the Tory party to typify the John Bull they adore.

HONEST MAN

His is no highfalutin oratory, although, retired, iron founder that he is, he occasionally graces his speeches with rare and apt quotations, showing he is the book lover one might expect a kinsman of the artist, Burne-Jones, and the novelist and poet, Rudyard Kipling, to be. But in the main his talks are forthright, blunt, convincing, because they are the outpourings of an honest man without an ounce of the demagogue in his make-up. If he has an unexpected vein of poetry, he also has a wholesome English humour.

DEMOCRATIC PRINCESS

BY MORRIS GILBERT

Paris.—A princess who defends democracy—such is the repute of one of Paris's most illustrious hostesses, whose influence in the realms of art, literature and statescraft is strong.

She is the Princess Lucien Murat, at whose home a guest will meet not only the "great" of Paris but the interesting, too, which is not always the same, and is much more important.

Artist and author in her own right, she has been the encourager of more than one now eminent name, has "introduced" no one knows how many budding celebrities. Her philosophy is that an "aristocrat" justifies himself to-day only by work. "I should not omit to mention," she says, "that I am a thorough republican."

MANSION TO APARTMENT

Times aren't too thriving for noble folk. Princess Lucien Murat—her friends call her Marie Murat—moved recently from the family mansion to a Paris apartment in the Avenue Villars.

For a Murat, it is a very appropriate site because its windows look out on the tomb of that Emperor of imperishable fame who made the first of the Murat line a king.

Joachim Murat, redoubtable soldier, campaigned with Bonaparte in Italy and Egypt. He returned with the Man of Destiny to Paris and played a vital role in the coup d'etat which made Napoleon emperor. In 1809, he married his leader's youngest sister, Caroline. Eight years later he ascended the throne of Naples as King Joachim.

Princess Lucien Murat.

Napoleonic days are never far distant in France. The great period of the First Empire comes constantly to mind. For Americans, considering the name of Murat, there is added interest in the fact that King Joachim's son, Napoleon Achille Murat, is closely linked with our own country. Napoleon Achille journeyed to America in 1821, settled in Florida, was naturalized—and became the mayor of Tallahassee! Presently, he married a grand-niece of George Washington, and conducted the venerable Lafayette on the latter's renowned farewell American tour in 1826.

A Murat was host to President Wilson in the days of the Versailles conference. This was a cousin of Prince Lucien, and he turned over his Paris mansion to the President to live in while here.

A "DIFFERENT" SALON

Princess Lucien Murat's salon is a salon with a difference. The typical institution of the last century was an evening gathering, or, possibly, a tea party. Princess Murat entertains in more classic style, at déjeuner. Her lunches are famous. So is the witty and wise talk that follows them over

AIDED JEAN COCTEAU

Since Princess Murat is a writer of considerable note as well as a painter of talent it is not surprising to find many artists and writers present. She was responsible in considerable degree for the early success of Jean Cocteau. She has long been host to Marie Laurencin, whose painting is as famous as it is individual. Critics, diplomats, and statesmen throng to her home.

In this gracious and "mondaine" atmosphere, Princess Murat has the chance to develop her ideas of democracy—and aristocracy.

"The aristocrat of to-day must work," she said.

In her case, Princess Murat said, her upbringing was very different to that of many aristocrats of her own time. Her father, a French republican deputy for 38 years, believed in work. "I was brought up with the idea that no one should be idle," she declared.

After a long stage of art study, she discovered that she could paint pictures well enough—but she couldn't sell them. So Princess Murat gave up painting for a time and turned to writing.

"DISCOVERER" OF TALENT

Princess Murat practices what she preaches. She works. In the Paris telephone book she is listed as "artist-painter." Her story of the life of Rasputin was highly praised. She has written lives of Catherine of Russia, of Lafayette, of Queen Christina of Sweden, and her own biography.

More interesting than any personal success is the influence she exerts on European art and letters through her interest and support. Her home is a ferment of intellectual, political and artistic ideas. Here the special talents of some young worker in the arts can be shrewdly appraised and coaxed. Some day, perhaps, a collector of note will be lunching there. A word may be dropped... perhaps the youngster is "launched."

THE AMATEUR PHOTOGRAPHER

"EFTOO" ON FILM SPEEDS

The past few years have seen many new emulsions on the photographic market, and this has focused attention on the subject of comparative film speeds. Many published film speeds are misleading, and cannot be fulfilled in average practice. This is due to many technical variations affecting film sensitivity.

The speed or sensitivity of a film, depends upon that area of the spectrum it is most sensitive to. In simpler words, this means that film speed will vary in accordance with the light conditions prevailing at time of exposure. For example, Super-Sensitive Panchromatic film has a certain speed at mid-day, and another early and late in the day, when the quality or "colour" of the light is different. Similarly, these same films are about four times as fast, by artificial lighting, and permit snapshots indoors.

Certain films may have a very high sensitivity to blue light, but very little sensitivity to green or yellow. A film of this kind, although having a very high "top" speed rating, is not a good balanced snapshot film, for it produces great over exposure of the sky, and other strong highlights, with little detail in the shadows and foreground of the picture. A quality emulsion must be sensitive to green and yellow, and have such great latitude that large exposure errors would bear little detriment to the quality of the finished picture.

GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL?

Reports from Oviedo officially state that the Government forces there, in conflict with striking miners, are regaining control in Asturias. This is the revolutionary hotbed of the moment.

Army regiments have occupied Mieres. Rebels, meanwhile, have seized the powder stores at the mines at Oviedo.

The rebels at Elhar, according to latest reports, have been surrounded and have signified their willingness to surrender. They fought a bitter five-hour battle with the soldiers and police and casualties were heavy on both sides.

TROOPS ENTER CITY.

It is now learned that troops have entered the city of Elbar, held for five hours by rebels.

The soldiers charged at several different points simultaneously and captured the rebel positions and 150 of the insurgents. Many rebels fled into the mountains. The rebels at Mondragon entered the house of a Basque Nationalist deputy, Senor Macias Oreja-Elosegui and shot him dead.—United Press.

STRIKE SPREADING.

The strike is steadily spreading through northern Spain. General strike orders have gone out in Salamanca, Cordoba, Valencia and Palencia, and a partial strike is on in Balboa and Murcia.

The Governor of San Sebastian announced the surrender of the rebels at Elbar. One hundred are in custody.

It is believed the wounded in Asturias number 75.—United Press.

DISCIPLINE ON THE RAILWAY

POWERS TO FINE EXTENDED

In the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Railways Ordinance, 1909, it is explained that Section 35 of the principal Ordinance, as amended by the amending Ordinance of 1927, gives the Manager of the Railway a limited power to dismiss, suspend and punish for misconduct railway servants in receipt of salaries of less than $100 or $1,000 per year who are not on the permanent establishment or serving under written agreements; and also empowers him to fine for breach of a rule made under section 32 any railway servant whose salary does not reach either of these figures.

It has been found desirable to increase this salary limit, and the main purpose of the proposed amendment is to enable the Manager of the Railway, with a view to enforcing stricter discipline, to exercise the power to fine against any employee who receives not more than $200 or $2,000 per annum as salary.

BRITISH TRADE IMPROVES

EXPANSION OF NOTE CIRCULATION

BIG TURN-OVER

London, Oct. 5. Further evidence of improving trade conditions in Britain is found in the weekly returns of the Bank of England.

For the past week, note circulation, which mainly represents actual cash in the hands of the public, has expanded by nearly another £4,000,000 and now stands over £7,000,000 higher than at this time last year.

Bankers' clearing house figures show a slight setback this week, but since the beginning of the present year they have recorded a remarkable expansion of £2,450,000,000. This mainly represents increased turnover of cheques in connection with the country's business and industry, and also its stock exchange investments.

Although the latter have probably been much heavier this year, a large part of the increased money turnover is due to increasing activity in trade and industry.

The clearing figures may be said to cover wholesale trade, and note circulation forms a rough index of retail business. Both are in a very healthy state.—British Wireless.

CINEMA NEWS

NOTES FROM THE THEATRES

The delightful persons of Anne Cameron's Saturday Evening Post Story, "Green Dice", came to life on the screen with will Rogers as "Mr. Skitch", the character name and title of the new Fox production now showing at the Queen's Theatre in conjunction with the world-famous acrobats and comedians, The Palm Trio. For outright entertainment, and good healthy laughs, "Mr. Skitch" tops anything Rogers has done. It is his best in modern, topical and timely picture, ("Mr. Skitch" is all of that) Rogers has the type of role that lets him loose with sallies of wit, the kind that have made him a national favourite—a humorist. In support of Will Rogers, Zasu Pitts, who is a star comedienne in her own right, heads the cast, and gives a flawless performance. Rochelle Hudson and Charles Starrett supply the romantic interest, and should be highly praised for their splendid portrayals. Other members of the cast who acquit themselves with distinction are Florence Desmond, Harry Green and Eugene Pallette. James Cruze, who directed from the screen play by Ralph Spence and Sonya Levien, is one of Hollywood's ablest directors, and does a splendid piece of directorial work.

"Life in the Raw"

George O'Brien comes back to the screen after a six-month tour of Europe, in "Life in the Raw", the new Fox romance coming to the Alhambra Theatre to-morrow. It is a Zane Grey story that once again unites the foremost writer and the premier player of Western film stories. "Life in the Raw" is reported as a combination of the outstanding elements in popular adventure romances. It depicts the arrival of an inexperienced Eastern girl into the midst of frontier hardships and intrigues. And it reveals the true emotions of a group of people who, impressed by the wide-openness of western territory, feel that they need no longer hide their true feelings. The film has a number of hair-raising features, not the least of which are the riding and fighting of O'Brien himself. A number of the finest horsemen in the film colony has been recruited for some of the best and most exciting riding ever witnessed on the screen. Claire Trevor, a newcomer to the screen is the new leading lady, introduced by O'Brien in this picture. Miss Trevor comes from the New York stage, where she was last seen in the leading role of "The Party's Over". Others in a notable cast, in support of O'Brien and Miss Trevor are Greta Nissen, Francis Ford and Warner Richmond. Louis King directed the production and Sammy

Lee is responsible for the dance ensembles in the picture.

"Viva Villa"

"Viva Villa", Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular epic opening on Wednesday at the Queen's Theatre, is the fictional story of Pancho Villa, the great Mexican revolutionary leader who was the outstanding figure in the world's history in the decade preceding the World War. The film is one of the truly great pictures of the past few years, a photoplay at once important and entertaining. It will take its place with such classics as "The Birth of a Nation", "Abraham Lincoln" and others in like vein. Wallace Beery heads a notable cast which includes Fay Wray as the sister of Don Felipe, Stuart Erwin as the cold-eyed killer, General Sierra, George E. Stone as the humorous letter writer for the illiterate Villa, Joseph Schildkraut as General Pascual, the traitor, Donald Cook as Don Felipe, Henry B. Walthall as the gentle visionary, President Madero, Katherine De Mille as the fiery-tempered Rosita, Villa's wife, Phillip Cooper, Frank Puglia and others, Jack Conway directed.

"Forbidden"

Anything with a heart interest is tagged a love story, but "Forbidden", the new Barbara Stanwyck Columbia vehicle now showing at the Alhambra Theatre, is a real love story powerfully presented. Love is its only motive. It starts on a Spring day when the heroine is moved by thoughts of love to squander her savings on a search for an adventure in hearts. Of course, she finds it, but her love proves to be no light thing that can be tossed aside when the home port is reached. Barbara Stanwyck is superb as the young girl, the mother, and then the worldly-wise woman. She is equal to every demand of a part that, less expertly played, could have lacked sympathy. Ralph Bellamy gives a powerful impersonation as Holland. Dorothy Peterson is excellent as the wife, Myrna Fresholtz is an adorable baby and Charlotte V. Henry a charming ingenue.

"On The Air"

Of the many stars that have made "On the Air", which opens to-morrow at the Queen's, and which is one of the most delightful screen entertainments of the year, there is one who deserves special commendation, and who is certain to appeal to film-goers of all ages. He is no other than Harry Champion, a variety star who seems to have found the secret of perpetual youth. To hear him sing his once classic numbers, "Any Old Iron" and "Henry The Eighth" is to find yourself harking back to the grand old days of the music hall. This versatile star brings a breath of the past into a show that is representative of the colourful present.

for "On The Air" is enriched by the personalities of most of our modern radio artists. There is a story in the film which ably supports the splendid abilities of all concerned and which turns the entire picture into a veritable triumph of British production as well as it should be with such names as these—Davy Burnaby, Ronald Furdell, Betty Astell, Freddy Brown, Clapham and Dwyer, Maria de Pietro, Anona Winn, Eve Decker, Hugh E. Wright, Derek Oldham, Jane Carr, Max Wall, Jimmy Jade, Laurie Devine, Wilson, Koppell and Betty and the Buddy Bradley's Rhythm Girls. Roy Fox and his famous band knit the show together with their wonderful renderings of some of the most popular dance tunes of the times.

"The Trumpet Blows"
George Raft adds a new and colourful characterisation to his repertoire in Paramount's "The Trumpet Blows", showing to-day at the King's Theatre.
Having been a delineator of underworld characters and more recently a dancer, he now appears in the role of a matador in this romantic and dramatic piece of entertainment which has its setting south of the Rio Grande. Raft discloses in this picture a capacity for dramatic expression which would seem adequately to justify his new Paramount contract, under which he is to attain the complete status of a star in forthcoming vehicles. Robert Emmett
Dunn, directing "The Trumpet Blows", turned out a workmanlike job. He combined the various ingredients at his command into a colourful and moving entertainment which never fails to sustain interest. The screen play was written by Bartlett Cormack from a story by Porter Emerson
Brown and J. Parker Read, Jr. It was photographed by Harry Fishback.

"Where Sinners Meet"
In his many and varied screen roles, Clive Brook has worked himself out of some precarious situations and highly ludicrous dilemmas, but none so farcical as that in which he commences himself in the RKO-Radio comedy, "Where Sinners Meet", which comes to the King's Theatre, on Sunday. As Mr. Latimer in the screen story, he is a wealthy Englishman who devotes his time and his peculiar to showing mismatched couples the errors of their ways. He virtually kidnaps wives eloping with other women's husbands, and husbands eloping with other men's wives, and forces them to remain as his guests until each becomes so familiar with the faults and idiosyncrasies of the other that they gladly change their plans. Diana Wynyard, who is co-starred, and Billie Burke, portray the amorous women, and the film is no-worthy because it is the first time Miss Wynyard and Brook have appeared together since co-starring in the well-remembered "Cavalcade".
J. Walter Ruben directed "Where Sinners Meet" and the supporting cast includes Reginald Owen, Alan Mowbray, Walter Armitage, Katherine Williams, Robert Adair and Verion Steele.

SOP TO CHINA

NAVAL CONFERENCE
AGENDA

Washington, Oct. 5.
It is persistently reported that America is urging the inclusion of political questions in the forthcoming Naval Conference agenda.
This is linked with America's desire to counteract the Chinese feeling aroused over the United States silver policy.

Since no modification of the American silver policy is expected, it is believed that Washington wishes to demonstrate that her traditional friendship for China has not diminished.

The Japanese are at present firm in their attitude against the discussion of politics at the Conference. They argue that, in the Manchurian controversy, Geneva proved the futility of diplomacy by conference.

The Far Eastern situation is now clearly defined and there is nothing to discuss, the Japanese maintain.

American diplomatic circles have no information pending the arrival of Mr. Norman Davis, United States delegate at the Naval Conference.

The official Chinese attitude has not yet been officially defined, but it is easy to guess that the friends of China will emphasize that the Naval Conference is a favourable opportunity for dissipating the unhappy suspicions concerning the Far East.

On the other hand, if political questions, which were an integral part of the Naval Conference of 1922, are now excluded, it will have the worst possible effect on Chinese feeling.—Our Own Correspondent.

It is reported that Mr. Joseph sentatives will be consulted by the United States Government regarding the Far East situation, in view of the coming preliminary London naval talks.—Central News

SPLENDID PLAY IN SHANGHAI TOURNEY

WIN IN FOUR SETS

Shanghai, Sept. 30.

Gordon Lum and Guy Cheng yesterday gave Shanghai's foreign tennis stars a lesson in the value of persistent and calm effort. Through those qualities they easily outplayed Maurice Benavitch and Lewis Carson and defeated them for the S.L.T.A. men's doubles title 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

The Chinese players played a steady game in comparison with the brilliant flashes of Carson and Benavitch, and it was through their consistency that they gained such a huge lead over them.

The most outstanding feature of the match was the remarkable display by Cheng, who easily outshone his veteran partner in every department. Cheng started off with perfect confidence, placing his shots with delightful accuracy and leading the Chinese couple to a strong claim to the title.

Carson was, as usual, polished, and rarely made an error, but was given useful support by his partner.

Benavitch seemed to be taking things with a much too light-hearted spirit in view of the strenuous efforts of his partner, and especially at the net, where he failed miserably and often. The foreign couple should have won easily but Benavitch rarely showed his right form.

BRITAIN WINS ROPER CUP

BENAVITCH AND DUFF PREVAIL

Shanghai, Oct. 1.

Great Britain yesterday won the Roper (International) Cup from China by defeating America in five thrilling sets. The British couple, Benavitch and Duff defeated the U.S. pair, Carson and Squares 2-6, 7-5, 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

The outstanding feature of the match was the remarkable comeback staged by M. Benavitch, who thoroughly redeemed himself after his and display of Saturday. Whether from the base or the net, in yesterday's match, Benavitch was easily the equal of his partner, and brought off some brilliant shots.

The British pair worked together with beautiful precision, backing each other up and covering the court well. Their machine-like precision was a great factor in their victory.

Squares played a fine losing game, facing the arrears like a veteran and going for everything. If his skill had been as great as his enthusiasm the result might have been different. Duff and Carson were as steady as usual, the former in particular giving a display which was thrilling to watch. In the final set, when each side went all out to win, Duff's accurate placements had the U.S. team completely outplayed.

Laxity Of Welsh Referees

RUGBY LAW THAT IS COMPLETELY IGNORED BY OFFICIALS

BRIGHTER PLAY PROMISED THIS YEAR

A Bristol supporter saw me at Cardiff with a Welsh Union handbook in my hands and asked me if he might have a look at it. At the beginning of the book he saw, "The laws of the game of Rugby football—as framed by the International Rugby Football Board."

"Then you do play the same laws here in Wales as we do in England," he inquired. Upon my assuring him it was so, he wanted to know why it was that practically without exception we ignored one rule which was incorporated in these laws. He said it had been totally ignored in the game between Cardiff and Bristol which had just been played, and was so treated whenever a Welsh referee had charge of the game.

He told me he referred to Law 10 (e), which reads: "No player shall pick up the ball after a tackled player has released it or when it is on the ground after a player has been tackled, until it has been played with a foot."

I had to admit his accusation was a just one, and that our players in fact violated this law upon each and every occasion, as if they were totally ignorant of a truism that the bulk of rugby players have only a passing acquaintance with the laws of the game. That is all wrong, but it is worse when our referees behave as if they too are ignorant.

This is not so for practically all Welsh referees are perfectly aware of that after a tackle the ball must be put into play with the foot. It seems as if by some tacit arrangement they have agreed to ignore it. Welsh crowds do not like this law.

WRONG IMPRESSIONS.

They think a player covers if he can wriggle free after a tackle and send a pass out to a waiting colleague.

When they go into England and meet the average referee and find he is carrying out a law which is not in their scheme of things. They are inclined to view the subsequent penalty as some unfair imposition which they cannot understand, and so regard the official in charge as biased against them!

The same thing happens in international games and because a Welshman is penalised for breaking this law, in ignorance, it is granted, the general impression is that Wales is having a raw deal.

It is up to Welsh referees this season to pay strict attention to this ill-remembered section of the law, else why is it in our Union's handbook?

Fundamentally, this law is a good one, for, if carried out in conjunction with the other parts, it eliminates a lot of rough play and in addition speeds up the game.

Players may know, but few fully appreciate that when they are tackled their duty is to get up before playing it with a foot. I should like to ask you how many players you have seen roll away from a ball when tackled and then get up and play it with a foot?

Does a player do that when defending and tackled five or so yards from his own goal-line? Not in Wales, whatever is the general practice in England.

BRIGHTER PLAY PROMISED.

Practically all I have read this season about Welsh Rugby stresses the point that we are in for a season of brighter play. I suppose a keen desire among our clubs for brighter, more open play.

What games I have seen lead me to believe that there is every promise of such being the case. It is quite possible this is going to be our brightest and best post-war season.

We hear a great deal about the revival of our past glories such as surrounded our winder years of the first decade of this century. All this may be possible—but our referees, have something to teach our players, and spectators, which can help along this much-desired era.

LADIES' HOCKEY

INVITATION FOR INTERPORT GAME

At the first annual meeting of the Hongkong Ladies' Hockey Association, held at Lane Crawford's restaurant last evening, it was announced that a letter had been sent to the Shanghai Association inviting them to the Colony to play the local side in an interport game later in the season.

Miss H. Knill presided, and there were present representatives of the Hongkong Ladies', St. Andrew's, G.B.A., C.B.S., Y.M.C.A., Club and the Diocesan Girls' School.

In her annual report Miss Knill stated that the Association was formed last season to take over the responsibility of competitive ladies' hockey in the Colony, including the Cner Clark Cup tournament. With a view to raising funds the Championships v. Rest game had been played on the Hongkong Football Club ground, and as a result of that game the balance in hand amounted to $103.45. Miss Knill had been elected secretary of the Association, it being decided that other officials be elected at the annual general meeting in January of the fact that the season was nearly over.

The chairman expressed thanks to Mr. Walter Pryde for the use of the ground for the Champions v. Rest match; to the Press for their help in regard to advertising the game; for the hockey articles and for giving the players write-ups; to Messrs. J. S. Palmer and J. T. K. Gilchrist for umpiring; and to Mr. Mamak for donating spoons to the winners of the match.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. T. E. Pearce; Vice-President, Miss H. Knill; Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. P. M. Harrop; Assistant Secretary, Miss A. Fowler.

It was decided to hold a seven-a-side tournament on December 8, and that each affiliated Club enter one team. Miss Knill thought the idea a good one, which would do much to improve the standard of ladies' hockey in Hongkong. She added that Mrs. Pearce had kindly offered to present a cup for the competition.

WILL CEMENT GAME IN COLONY

CLUBS ASKED TO DECIDE

START MADE TO SEASON

(By "Veritas").

The announcement that the executive committee of the Hongkong Badminton League is to recommend to clubs the establishment of an Association does not come altogether as a surprise, although this does not minimise the importance of such a step.

If badminton in Hongkong is to become organized, it is plainly obvious that an Association, with its constitutional regulations and wider powers of administration will be more beneficial to the game than a league, whose powers must be confined to the conducting of affairs concerned solely with that league.

An Association, properly constituted, ensures a safeguard for the club, and means that all open competitive events will be controlled by the one regime, thereby eliminating the possibility of different factions, none of which would enjoy a status commensurate with projects mooted by them.

Solidarity should be one of the keystones of any effort to organize, especially when the object is in its infancy, as badminton is in Hongkong. The league officials, I know, have given no little time and thought to the proposition, and support from the clubs will guarantee the game starting off here as it should.

DRAFT RULES PREPARED.

The proposed regulations of this Association and the rules of the league will be in the hands of the clubs next week, and until then it is not advisable to discuss them in these columns, beyond stating that they have been very carefully considered by the league, executive, and that the draft regulations of the Association are based on those of a well established sports body.

As to the rules of the league, every effort has been made to deal with all situations peculiar to the game which are likely to arise. At the same time consideration has been taken of the fact that it is inevitable to make the rules too wide-bound in the early stages of a new organization. Experience alone will reveal whether the rules are sufficiently wide, or possibly a little too stringent. At the moment the big necessity is a full attendance of clubs on October 1, to the any decisions made can be regarded as expressing the feelings of local badminton enthusiasts generally.

CLUBS MAKE A START.

Reports indicate that clubs are beginning to re-open for the coming season. The Club de Recreio brought at their shuttlecocks on Tuesday, and started off with a ten-a-side match. The Recreio have fairly taken the game to their hearts and on Wednesday there was a remarkable muster of lady members to participate in the first "Ladies' Night" of the season.

The rapid advance in the standard of play is guaranteed by the tremendous enthusiasm of the players, in addition to which the newcomers will enjoy the helpful advice of the existing men players, two or three of whom rank as among the best in the Colony.

The Recreio are keen supporters of the league and are looking forward to placing two men's, possibly two ladies', and a mixed doubles team in the field.

K.C.C. LOSSES.

The Kowloon Cricket Club held their official opening night on Wednesday. The attendance was encouraging, and one noticed a general eagerness to get down to serious practice. The K.C.C. are going to be very busy to lose several of their best men—expatriates when the league operates, as E. P. Fincher, H. Kew, F. Broadbridge and A. E. P. Guest owe allegiance to St. Andrew's Church Club which they helped to establish. However the services of A. E. Collins, Walker, Wigg, Smeckes, E. C. Fincher, Green and Gray among others, while they are also promised the assistance of Mansell, who used to play a great deal in Shanghai, and a few years ago won the French Club championship against such opposition as A. L. Sullivan and Malice, the present champion.

The club will again be strong in ladies, and there seems every chance of two teams being entered in this division of the league.

LEAGUE FOOTBALL POSTPONEMENTS.

ATHLETIC v. ST. JOSEPH'S MATCH SCRATCHED.

The first two postponed matches of the new league football season have been made for this week-end. The Kowloon - Borderers match will not take place this afternoon, and advice has been received by the Secretary of the Football Association, that the first-division match between Chinese Athletic and St. Joseph's scheduled for tomorrow, has been put off.

MAIDMENT DEPARTS FROM CARDIFF

Derby county have signed Reginald Stockill, an inside reserve forward from the Arsenal. A schoolboy international, he first appeared for York City as an amateur at the age of 16, and he has made eight appearances in the Arsenal team. Before the Arsenal signed him three seasons ago Stockill played in the colours of Scarborough.

Maidment, the Cardiff City inside-forward, who refused terms offered by the Welsh club and who was placed on the transfer list with a fee of £350 upon him, has signed for Blyth Spartans of the North-Eastern League.

PETERSEN TO MEET COOK

BOARD ORDERS AN EARLY FIGHT

By Fred Dartnell

Having successfully defended his Empire title against Gains, Jack Petersen has been ordered by the British Boxing Board of Control to get ready to fight George Cook, the Australian, for his British heavy-weight championship.

The boxers were instructed to arrange the contest before Sept. 25, and failing such arrangement the Board would ask promoters for the best price.

The decision of the Board seems to have surprised Petersen, but after the grim fight Cook gave his son at Cardiff last year, when Petersen had little to spare in winning in 15 rounds on points, it was obvious that the Australian had good claims for a return bout. Cook was officially selected as the challenger for the British championship as he has qualified for such a match by his residence here.

I am very glad that Cook has not been shouldered out of his fight to which he is well entitled and I think he will make Petersen gallop, although the veteran is a year older since they last met.

Petersen's dad says: "I do not mind when it is. One fight is very much like another to us."

Cook has always been a trier and he has fought against the best during the last decade—Carpenter, Carnera, Goddard, Paulino, McCordale, Neusel and a lot of other big fellows.

Many men with lesser credentials have been allowed to fight for a championship.

STOP PRESS

The Navy has been warned to stand by to render all assistance to the City of Cambridge, the freighter now on the rocks at Pratas, and as a result league football matches over the week-end in which naval teams are concerned have been postponed.

The affected games are: First Division, Navy v. Lincoln. Second division, Navy v. Athletic.

WOMEN'S CRICKET.

TEAM FOR AUSTRALIA

Three Test Matches to be Played

(By Marjorie Pollard)

On October 19 next, the fifteen women cricketers comprising the touring team for Australia, will sail from these shores. They will be away for nearly six months. They will play clubs and all the States and will, in fact, have a very busy and I have no doubt, most entertaining time.

All the players will pay their own expenses between this country and Australia. This means that only those with the time and money are in the team. But the selection Committee had nevertheless, a wide choice and the team chosen is a very good one. It is very young; it is sound and, we hope quite equal to the arduous task ahead of it. Since the selections were made in the early summer, no change has been made and all the players are very keen, and very much alive to their responsibilities.

Miss Archdale, the captain, and the whole team has the good wishes and the whole-hearted interest of all women team players. They are in a way, pioneers. No Women's Cricket Team has ever before been abroad. They have no idea of the Australian standard of play; they have to be prepared to play cricket lasting three days—or even to a finish.

DIVIDED SKIRTS

Women cricketers in this country will be interested in the following points. The players will wear divided skirts and shirts. They will have to use a 5½oz. ball (we use a 5oz. ball in England), but they will only bowl a six ball over. These matters have been settled after discussion with the Australian Council.

The only thing that we are worried about is that the doubtful word "Tests" has crept in. In women's cricket the word is as out of place as a football at Lords. But our Team is playing three matches against All Australia, and they are to be called "Tests."

But whatever the fate of our team in these Tests, they will be encouraged by knowing that they have very good wish from the hundreds of supporters they have behind, although, at the same time, we must confess harbouring a trace of envy as well.

WALTERS DECLINES

Ordered By Doctor To Take Rest

London, Oct. 5. C. F. Walters, the Worcester captain, who led the Englishmen in the first Test match against the Australians in the last series, has declined the invitation to accompany the M.C.C. team to the West Indies this winter.

It is understood that his doctor has advised him to take a complete rest. Mr. E. S. Wyatt, who explained England in the last four Tests against the Australians, will lead the M.C.C. side, of which the following have already been chosen:

R. E. S. Wyatt (Worcestershire), Capt., E. R. T. Holmes (Surrey), K. Parnes (Essex), W. R. Hammond (Gloucester), E. P. Hendon (Middlesex), L. E. G. Ames (Kent), W. Farrimond (Lancashire), Smith (Middlesex), G. Paine (Worcestershire), and M. Leyland (Yorkshire).

The team will leave England on December 15 and return on April 1. Thirteen games will be played, of which four will be Test matches.

RUMJAHN COUSINS PUT IN HARD COURT PRACTICE.

The Rumjahn cousins put in some hard court practice yesterday in preparation for the Interport against Canton to be played early next month.

The Kowloon Bowling Green Club kindly lent their court, and the cousins played two sets of angles, which they shared. If D. Rumjahn won the first set 6-4, after trailing 1-3, but lost the second at 7-5, after pulling up from 3-5 to five-all. Both quickly adapted themselves to the court, and should be in excellent shape later on.

LANCASHIRE'S DOUBLE

Records in Minor Counties Match

Lancashire II. carried off the Minor Counties' Championship by drawing with Surrey, and so recorded a notable double for the county, who for the first time in their history have won both cricket titles this summer.

It was Lancashire's first success in the second-class competition since 1907.

Surrey, the challengers, never stood much chance of effecting a win, but, thanks to a tireless display by Wilson they put up a fine fight.

In making 205 Wilson scored the first double century for Surrey in the competition. In addition, the Surrey total was the biggest ever obtained against Lancashire. Wilson batted over seven hours and a half, and hit sixteen 4's in his chanceless innings.

POLICE FORCE PROBATION

LOCAL LAW BEING ALTERED

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Police Force Ordinance, 1932. It is explained in the Objects and Reasons that under Section 10 of the principal Ordinance, the interpreters and telephone clerks employed in the Police Department full for pension purposes under the ordinary civil pensions law, and it is considered that the conditions for such officers in respect of probation and confirmation should be assimilated to those in force for similar officers in the ordinary civil service, namely a minimum probation of two years. An amendment of Section 6 (2) of the principal Ordinance is therefore necessary confining the limitation of six months for probation to the disciplined staff of the Force.

The new sub-section reads:—

"(2) Such period of engagement may include a probationary period, which in the case of a subordinate officer, constable or member of a crew shall not exceed six months. Should any person thus engaged be found during his probationary period to be unsatisfactory, the Inspector General may at any time during such probationary period terminate the engagement."

MACAO GOVERNOR'S REPLY TO MESSAGE

DANGEROUS GOODS

CHANGES IN LOCAL LAW

Amendments are to be made to the Dangerous Goods Ordinance, 1873, necessitated, in the main, by the recent drafting of a new and complete code of "dangerous goods" regulations to which the Chamber of Commerce has agreed and which are to be made by the Governor in Council under Section 5 of the principal Ordinance.

Clause 2 omits as redundant the words "an order of" from section 2 of the principal Ordinance. It is quite sufficient to require no more than a declaration by the Governor in Council to make any goods "dangerous."

Clause 3 substitutes for paragraph (f) of section 3 (1) a new paragraph enabling regulations to be made for the testing of dangerous goods and petroleum containers, a new paragraph (ff) allowing provision by regulation for the labelling is a feature of the new regulations which are already in print.

Clause 4 substitutes a new section for section 9, since some of the old provisions will be no longer necessary when the new regulations come into force.

By clause 5 sub-sections (1) and (5) of section 10 have been re-drafted. The effect of the additional words added at the beginning of sub-section (1) is to exempt the masters of ships that enter the harbour carrying dangerous goods from the licensing provisions of this section.

In both sub-sections the words "or warehouse owner" have been inserted after "servant or agent" in order to make it quite clear that the owner of dangerous goods who deposits them in another's godown is not thereby relieved from personal liability to take out a licence in respect of such goods.

CRIMINAL LAW AMENDMENT

HOME ACT TO BE APPLIED HERE

The Gazette contains the draft of an Ordinance to amend the Criminal Procedure Ordinance, 1899, and the new section 77A to be incorporated by this Bill in the Criminal Procedure Ordinance, 1899, introduced in Hongkong, on motions from the Secretary of State, the main provisions of the Infantile Act, 1922, and the Sentence of Death (Expectant Mothers) Act, 1931.

The former of these Acts established infanticide in certain circumstances as a special form of homicide, punishable as manslaughter, while the latter prohibits sentence of death on any pregnant woman convicted of a capital offence, substitutes therefor a sentence of imprisonment for life, and lays down the special procedure by which the question of alleged or suspected pregnancy is to be inquired into, and determined.

Thus clause 2 of this Bill substitutes for section 77 of the principal Ordinance a new section of which sub-sections (1), (4) and (5) are reproductions with the necessary modifications of section 1 and sub-sections (4) and (5) of section 2 respectively of the Act of 1931.

Sub-section (2) retains the provisions of old section 77 regarding the examination of a convicted woman, who claims to be pregnant, by two or more medical practitioners sworn for the purpose, instead of, as in England, by a jury de ventre inspeciente; but includes also the provisions of the 1931 Act to the effect that (a) the procedure for determination of the question of pregnancy is to be carried out before sentence, in arrest of execution, and (b) the Court may order the examination ex proprio motu.

Similarly clause 3 reproduces with the necessary modifications sub-sections (1), (2), (3) and (4) of section 1 of the Infantile Act, 1922.
